

HANNAH FRANK: A GLASGOW ARTIST - LATEST NEWS!

PRESS RELEASE

FAMILIES MAKE THEMSELVES 'AT HOME' IN LANCASTER MUSEUM

For publication in week beginning 24 May up to June 5 2004

Art and history lovers can connect with a crucial link to the 'Glasgow School' of the early Twentieth Century through an exciting series of special events at Lancaster City Museum and Art Gallery.

As part of the museum's main exhibition, Hannah Frank: A Glasgow Artist, Fiona Frank, the artist's niece, will give a talk about Hannah Frank's art, life and family, on Friday 28 May at 2pm.

Families looking for ways to entertain their children during half term can attend one or both of the family print workshops on Tuesday 1 June and Thursday 3 June between 1.30 - 3.30pm.

On the last afternoon of the exhibition (Saturday 5 June) Fiona Frank will hold an 'at home' session from 3-5 p.m in the gallery where visitors can view and ask questions about the 70 plus pieces on show. These include Hannah Frank's original black and white drawings of strangely-shaped women, fairies and biblical subjects; bronze and plaster sculptures; extracts from Hannah's personal diaries; early family sketches and information about Hannah's Jewish heritage.

(m.f...)

All these activities are free, you don't need to reserve, just turn up.
